

With our network design and advisory service, our Support Engineers can provide comments on your existing network layouts, mark-up network diagrams to indicate correct product placement, or provide proposed sketches for network design improvements together with additional information to help you make more informed decisions.

Service outcome

- Advice in network design
- Understand security risks and how to prevent them
- Understand how to use HMS Networks solutions efficiently and successfully

Client Challenges

- Difficulty integrating new systems with existing infrastructures
- Exposure to security risks without clear prevention measures
- Lack of clear guidelines and standardized installation practices

Service details

- Seamless project delivery by a global team of service engineers
- This service is delivered remotely